SEND BOOKS TO THE SOLDIERS AND SAILORS.

This is Book Drive Week all over the United States in a campaign to secure good reading matter for the soldiers in the cantonments and camps, and in the naval training stations at various places. Paris is going to do its share. Select from your libraries good books in good condition. Wrap them up and mark them "Liberty War Service," and take them or send them to the Paris Public Library and give them to Miss Imogene Redmon, the librarian. They will be sent to the camp libraries in America and "over there."

(15mar-2t)

BOOKS NEEDED BY THE SOLDIERS AND SAILORS.

Look over your shelves and pick out the books you are going to send to the men in khaki. Select the books you enjoyed, but will probably never read again. Choose some you would like to keep. Others will like them, too. Men like stories of adventure—Western stories, detective stories, biography, history, travel, and poetry of all kinds. War books, military manuals and up-to-date technical books are in great demand. Wrap them up and label the packages "Liberty War Service, American Library Association." Send the packages to Miss Imogene Redmon, Librarian, Paris Public Library, or call Home phone 377, and they will be called for.
